

You're not building a vending machine company.
That's the first mistake in how this is positioned.
You're building a fitness ecosystem + monetization layer inside gyms, and Korea is perfect for that if you position it correctly.
Let's break this into two parts:

1. What this current brand actually is
2. A Korea-optimized rebrand that fits your coaching business + market reality

FUELBAR
PERFORMANCE NUTRITION SYSTEM

운동 후, 결과까지 바로 연결.

퍼포먼스를 위한 스마트 영양 솔루션, 퓨얼바

- 10-20초 빠른 제공
- 맞춤형 영양 레시피

FUELBAR LINE UP

KOREAN TASTE, CLEAN INGREDIENTS

- 초코 프루틴
- 말차 라떼
- 곡물 프루틴
- 말가 요거트
- 고구마 라떼

국내 시장 최적화

- 한국인의 입맛에 맞춘 레시피
- 깔끔하고 세련된 디자인
- 빠른 속도, 높은 편의성
- 집 운영자 수익 극대화

TRAIN FUEL ACHIEVE

1. What the current brand actually is (stripped down)

From the proposal :

Core Product

Automated protein shake vending machines

10–30 second delivery

Multiple supplements (protein, BCAA, isotonic, etc.)

Smart dashboard + remote management

High-margin, low-labor revenue stream

Core Value

Turns gym traffic into recurring revenue

No staffing required

Fast ROI (2–4 months claimed)

Custom branding for gyms

Business Models

Buy + operate (high control, high margin)

Revenue share (low risk, lower margin)

Hidden Truth (Important)

This is NOT:

A supplement brand

A vending machine brand

This IS: 👉 Infrastructure for monetizing fitness habits

2. Why this current positioning will underperform in Korea

If you copy-paste this brand into Korea, it will struggle.

Why:

Problem 1 — Korea already has convenience

Convenience stores = everywhere

Ready-to-drink protein is cheap and accessible

Problem 2 — Korean gyms don't think like US gyms

Less focused on ancillary revenue

More focused on retention + aesthetics

Problem 3 — The branding is too “industrial”

Feels like equipment, not lifestyle

Korea is design + experience-driven

3. Rebrand Strategy (Built for YOU)

+ Korea)

You don't sell machines.

You sell:

Performance Convenience + Habit

Automation + Premium Gym Identity

New Brand Direction

Brand Name Direction (examples)

FUELBAR

PERFORM LAB

SHAKE STATION

CHILI LAB (your brand extension)

CORE FUEL SYSTEM

BODY FUEL HUB

For Korea specifically:

퍼포먼스 바 (Performance Bar)

바디 연료 스테이션 (Body Fuel Station)

핏 연료 (Fit Fuel)

4. New Positioning (This is the core shift)

Old:

“Protein vending machine”

New:

In-gym automated nutrition system for performance, physique, and habit building

5. Your Version (Integrated with your coaching)

This is where you win.

You combine:

Coaching

Diet systems

Content

Physical infrastructure

Your Unique Brand Model

Tier 1 — Coaching (your current)

Online coaching

Diet systems (Korean + vertical diet hybrid)

Tier 2 — Content

Instagram / Naver

Education (what to drink, when, why)

Tier 3 — Physical System (THIS PRODUCT)

Machines placed in gyms

Your branding + protocols

6. Rebranded Offer (Clean)

“Chili Performance Fuel System”

What it does:

Delivers exact nutrition protocols on demand

Supports:

fat loss

muscle gain

recovery

pre-workout performance

Product Experience (important shift)

Instead of: “Choose a drink”

You reposition as:

Post Workout Recovery

Lean Cut Shake

Performance Boost

Intra Workout Fuel

This aligns with how YOU coach.

7. Korea-Specific Optimization

This is where most people fail.

Must adapt to:

1. Speed culture

10–20 sec = good

Messaging: “no waiting, no prep”

2. Aesthetic culture

Machine must look premium

Minimal, clean, Apple-like

3. Social proof

Influencer / trainer integration

4. Convenience store competition

You beat it by:

personalization

freshness

8. Revenue Model (Your version)

Instead of just:

“Sell shakes”

You stack:

1. Per drink revenue

~~£~~3,500–~~£~~6,000 range

2. Membership integration

“Free shake after workout plan”

“Included in premium PT”

3. Coaching funnel

Scan → leads → clients

4. Brand placement

gyms become marketing channels

9. Messaging Rewrite (clean + usable)

Headline:

“Turn workouts into results instantly.”

Sub:

“Automated performance nutrition, built for modern gyms.”

Korea version:

운동 후 결과까지 바로 연결되는 퍼포먼스 뉴트리션
시스템

10. Simple Brand Summary

Final Rebrand

You are building:

A hybrid of:

- coaching brand
- nutrition system
- in-gym tech product

One-line clarity:

“We install automated nutrition systems in gyms that improve client results and generate recurring revenue.”

11. What I would do if I were you (direct)

1. Don't lead with the machine
2. Lead with results + system
3. Attach it to your coaching brand immediately
4. Pilot in 1–2 gyms in Seoul (Sinchon/Hongdae area fits your network)
5. Build content around:

“what to drink after workouts”

“why convenience matters”

10-20초 빠른 제공

🔥 SHAKEUP Product Line (Korea-Optimized)

1. SHAKEUP MINI (STARTER MODEL)

Positioning

Entry-level / space-efficient / high ROI per m²

Specs

4 containers (2kg each)

Total capacity: ~8kg powder

~80–120 servings depending on mix

Footprint: countertop / reception desk

Target output: low–medium traffic

Ideal Locations

PT studios (1:1 gyms)

Pilates studios

Small boutique gyms

Office gyms

Cafe-style fitness spaces

Why this works in Korea

Space is expensive

Many gyms are small but premium

Owners want add-on revenue without sacrificing floor space

2. SHAKEUP CORE (Medium Standalone)

Positioning

Mainstream gym solution (this will be your best seller)

Specs

8 containers (2kg each)

Total capacity: ~16kg

~150–250 servings

Slim vertical design (important for Korea)

Wall-adjacent placement

Ideal Locations

Commercial gyms

Franchises

University gyms

High-end PT centers

Key Advantage

More variety:

protein

diet

recovery

pre-workout

isotonic

Why this wins

This hits the sweet spot:

Not too bulky

Enough variety to feel premium

Fits Korean “efficient design” expectation

👉 This is your flagship model

3. SHAKEUP PRO (Large Unit)

Positioning

High-volume / flagship / premium experience

Specs

12 containers (2kg each)

Total capacity: ~24kg

250–400+ servings

Larger interface

Optional dual dispensing (future upgrade)

Ideal Locations

Large gyms

Fitness chains

CrossFit / hardcore gyms

Sports performance centers

Key Advantage

Full menu:

muscle gain

cutting intra-workout

hydration

specialty blends

Can function as:

“Nutrition Bar Replacement”

 Smart Product Strategy (This is important)

Don't sell these as “sizes.”

Sell them as:

Model Identity

MINI Starter / Compact Revenue Unit

CORE Standard Gym System

PRO Full Performance Fuel Bar

Pricing Psychology (Korea-specific)

You don't just scale price—you scale status + capability

Example (rough positioning)

MINI → ₩4M–₩6M range

CORE → ₩7M–₩10M range

PRO → ₩11M–₩15M+

Or:

Revenue share model for MINI

Purchase model for CORE/PRO

⚠ Critical Design Insight (Don't ignore this)

In Korea:

THIN > WIDE

Your medium unit should:

Be narrow

Hug the wall

Look like a premium appliance, not a vending machine

UX Adjustment Per Model

MINI

Simplified UI

4–6 drink options max

Faster decision flow

CORE

Full category selection

Goal-based UI (cut / bulk / recovery)

PRO

Advanced:

custom macros

add-ons (BCAA, caffeine, etc.)

membership sync (future)

Unified Workflow (All Models)

User flow stays consistent (this matters for brand):

1. Tap screen

2. Select goal

3. Select flavor

4. Optional add-ons

5. Pay (KakaoPay / card)

6. 10–20 sec production

7. Pickup

Consistency = brand strength

 What You've Built (zoom out)

You now have:

A modular, scalable in-gym nutrition system

Not:

“a protein vending machine”

If I push you further (you should do this next)

1. Name each model visually:

MINI (M)

CORE (C)

PRO (P)

2. Build:

Side-by-side comparison chart

Gym owner decision guide

3. Decide:

Which model you will actually pilot first in Seoul

If you want, next step I can:

Design a clean comparison chart (Korean + English)

Build your pitch deck page for gym owners

Or map exact profit margins per model using Korean pricing + supply chain
